GASPARE MANOS, an Italian artist of Dalmatian descent, born 1968, lives and works between London, Paris and Venice. His works have been at the centre of personal exhibitions at several institutions and international art galleries - such as the retrospective exhibition URBIS of 150 of his works in 2008 at the Museo Diocesano in Venice.

This project is the first of a series of monographs of international contemporary artists to be held at the Juris and Perl Gallery in Venice. The GASPARE MANOS exhibition will remain open at the Juris and Perl Gallery to coincide with the first two months of the 55th Biennale of Contemporary Art in Venice. During the exhibition will be presented a new monograph on Gaspare Manos by the New York art historian ALAN JONES, as well as a new film on the life and art of the artist by the German director FRIEDERIKE SCHAFFER.
